

pineappleCITI

Garden State native pineappleCITI has been making music since the age of six. Influenced by the 90s cassettes and vinyls spinning daily in her father's record store, creating music became a natural extension of listening to it.

In 2016, a near-fatal car crash left her unable to walk for two years—but also sparked an unstoppable drive to persevere. While recovering in rehab, her first single “Rose Colored” went viral, and she even freestyled on Sway in the Morning from a knee scooter. Since then, pineappleCITI has built a multifaceted career as both an artist and platinum songwriter.

She has released three projects to date—Spilled Pineapples (2017), pineappleCITI (2018), and neonBLUE (2019)—along with standout singles like “I Need a Coupe,” “Balance,” and “Dance.” Her music has been featured across Netflix’s Sneakerheads, HBO’s Sweet Life, NBA 2K (20–24), Billboard, BET, Revolt TV, and more.

While relearning how to walk, she discovered a passion for songwriting. Her pen has since reached Kelly Rowland, Drake, Twista, Sexyy Red, Eric Bellinger, and the HBO series Rap Sh!t by Issa Rae, where she earned a Guild of Music Supervisors Award nomination for Best Song Written for Television with “Seduce & Scheme.”

HER CREATIVE REACH CONTINUES TO EXPAND, WITH HIGHLIGHTS INCLUDING:

- Drake’s “Rich Baby Daddy” & “Family Matters” (2023)
- 2023 Budweiser Super Bowl spot w/ Metro Boomin
- Buddy’s “Get It All” (2024)
- “No Favors” (2024) — NBA 2K24 soundtrack
- Walmart x Raedio BUDD Compilation Album (2024)
- Netflix “Starting Point” trailer song (2025)
- The Game’s Documentary 3 (2026)
- P-Valley Season 3 — Lionsgate (2026)
- Beat Saber (2026)

With a proven track record across major-label artists, global brands, and hit TV/film placements, pineappleCITI is one of the most versatile voices in today’s music landscape—an artist and songwriter delivering both cultural impact and commercial success.
